Project Plan
1. The context - you're a contractor, what's the event about, what it's about.
2. "You got a festival, you got clothes, you write about the event, the fun, the joy"
3. In the problem description, we have to describe what the actual problem is. Be as detailed as possible.
4. The project statement introduction states what we'll expand on and has a brief introduction to the event.
5. Have to put in that it's possible for the customer to buy at the location and not only online
6. The client would want the source code, unless we have a copyright document that states otherwise
7. The budget is good
8. Have a detail process of how the applications/website works
9. Have an architecture design of how the process works; workflow diagram of the event (blueprint)
10. Prepare to present prototype for the presentation

System Risk (examples)
- ATM machine break
- Functional or non-function problem
- Someone stole an item
- If the database crashes
- Smudge barcode
- Lost of ID

Identification Method
1. Use QR code for tickets and barcode for event. Cards are reusable; may be used for future events.
2. Reprogrammable card
3. RFID is cheap
4. Better to use a card rather than plastify paper
5. Meet with the client and ask what he thinks about it.
6. If there's an alternative, we can present them to him
7. Have a barcode on the card for backup, in case the RFID is not working..
8. We can just use the RFID for a demonstration for the presentation (at end of block).
